FLAG DAY

June 14, 2012

Mary Anne Clagett, CTRS, ACC

HISTORY

On June 14, 1977 in Philadelphia, PA, John Adams presented the following resolution before the Continental Congress: "Resolved, that the flag of the thirteen United States shall be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the union be thirteen stars, white on a blue field, representing a new constellation. "The Continental Congress passed this resolution adopting the Stars and Stripes as the official flag of the United States. The origins of Flag Day go back to 1877, when the government requested that the flag be flown from all public buildings to celebrate the 100th anniversary of its adoption. Flag Day, the anniversary of the Flag Resolution of 1777 was officially established by the proclamation by President Wilson's proclamation, but it was not until August 1949 that President Harry Truman signed an Act of Congress designating June 14 of each year as National Flag Day.

FATHER'S DAY

June 17, 2012

Michele Mason, BA

Sonora Smart Dodd

The American tradition of celebrating Father's Day was the idea of an enterprising daughter, Sonora Smart Dodd. The nation struck on Sunday in 1910 while listening to a Mother's Day sermon in Spokane, WA. She wanted a special day to honor her father, William Smart. Smart, a Civil War Veteran, was widowed when his wife died in childbirth with their sixth child. Mrs. Dodd proposed to Spokane city officials that the first Father's Day be observed on June 5, which happened to be her father's birthday. The local ministers needed extra time to prepare sermons for the occasion, so the date was moved to June 19, 1910. Father's Day has been widely celebrated ever since. In 1924, President Calvin Coolidge supported the idea of a national Father's Day. In 1966, President Lyndon Johnson signed a Presidential proclamation declaring the third Sunday in June as Father's Day. But it wasn't until 1972 that it was officially proclaimed a national holiday, when President Richard Nixon signed a Congressional resolution declaring the third Sunday in June as Father's Day.
